

CLIFFS OF MOHER

Visitor Experience

O'Brien's Tower Private Bookings

O'Brien's Tower stands on a headland near the highest point of the Cliffs of Moher in County Clare. It was built in 1835 by local landlord Cornelius O'Brien to serve as a viewing point for the 19th century tourists who were already flocking to Ireland's most popular natural attraction. Stunning views of the Cliffs to the north and south can be had from the rooftop viewing area and on a clear day the views can include Galway Bay and Aran Islands, Connermara and the Twelve Pins in the north and Loop Head and the Kerry Mountains in the south. Inside the tower a spiral staircase winds from the ground floor which serves as a small gift shop to the first floor which house a small light filled room with a rotatring exhibition and from there to the roof area. While the tower is normally open to the public for a guided tour to the top the first floor and roof area can be booked for small private events. Private functions such as wedding blessings and renewal of vows, catered receptions, family parties and launches cam all be accommodated. The maximum capacity of the tower is 25
